

Filmwork/Textilework, from global outsourcing to DIY

In December last year I held a workshop with Jittra Cotshadet and Nedine Kachornamsong where we compared and shared perspectives from the production conditions of the textile and animation industry.

Try Arm underwear is a fairtrade company based in Thailand. It originated from workers protests for decent working conditions against the underwear manufacture Triumph. Jittra Cotshadet was one of the activists in the protests and due to criticizing the government she is now considered a dissident in the military run Thailand.

15th December: 10:00 – 17:00: Seminar & textile workshop Co-LAB

10:00 – 12:00:

Lecture by Lina Persson: Oh, we're gonna hit the Big Boss for a raise!

Presentation by Nedine Kachornnamsong & Lina Persson: 100 years later

Film screening: National Character, by Gracelin Moore

Freewriting, questions & discussion with Jittra Cotshadet

13:00 – 17:00:

Tryarm pop-up factory. Jittra Cotshadet demonstrates the process behind Tryarms fairtrade production of underwear. Participants get to design & create patterns for making their own custom-made D-I-Y underwear.

16th December: 13:00 – 18:00: Drop-in workshop, STDH

